respite
n ['respaɪt]

a brief respite

Unit 2

virulent
adj ['vɪrul(ə)nt]

virulent speech

Unit 2

throng
n [θrɔŋ]

a large throng of people

Unit 2

voracious
adj [və'reɪʃəs]

a voracious appetite

Unit 2

wan adj [wɔn]

her wan complexion

Unit 2

deride
v [dɪ'raɪd]

to deride cruelly

Unit 2

irate adj [aɪ'reɪt]

an irate parent

Unit 2

masticate
v ['mæstɪkeɪt]

to masticate your food

Unit 2

inadvertent
adj [ˌɪnəd'vɜːt(ə)nt]

inadvertent actions

Unit 2

thwart
v [θwɔːt]

to thwart someone's plan

Unit 2

wry
adj [raɪ]

a wry sense of humor

Unit 2

jostle
v ['ʤɔsl]

to jostle roughly

Unit 2

peruse
v [pə'ruːz]

to peruse thoughtfully

Unit 2

indigent
adj ['ɪndɪʤənt]

indigent refugees

Unit 2

imminent
adj ['ɪmɪnənt]

imminent danger

Unit 2

obsolescence
n [ˌɔbsə'les(ə)n(t)s]

the inevitable obsolescence

Unit 2

impunity
n [ɪm'pjuːnətɪ]

legal impunity

Unit 2

tinge
n [tan]

a tinge of color

Unit 2

bolster
v ['bəulstə]

to bolster the effort

Unit 2

accost
v [ə'kɔst]

to accost the police officer

Unit 2

Her wan complexion led me to believe that she had been sick recently.

wan

pale, sick
бледный, болезненный
testverbal.ru

The teenager's voracious appetite never seemed to be satisfied!

voracious

hungry, insatiable, greedy голодный, ненасытный, жадный
testverbal.ru

The large throng of people crowded the subway station.

throng

crowd толпа
testverbal.ru

His virulent speech incited many people to do terrible things.

virulent

harmful, infectious, full of hate опасный, заразный, злой
testverbal.ru

The holiday break provided a brief respite for all the students and faculty.

respite

rest period, delay
передышка, отсрочка
testverbal.ru

How can we thwart their plan to take over the government?

thwart

to hinder, prevent мешать, препятствовать
testverbal.ru

Sue's inadvertent actions caused harm to her family.

inadvertent

heedless, accidental невнимательный, ненамеренный
testverbal.ru

Proper digestion is aided when you thoroughly masticate your food.

masticate

to chew up жевать
testverbal.ru

The irate parent berated the young teacher incessantly.

irate

angry, incensed рассерженный, взбешенный
testverbal.ru

Joe's ex-wife derides him cruelly whenever they are out in public.

deride

to ridicule, scoff at высмеивать
testverbal.ru

You must move quickly, for you are in imminent danger!

imminent

close in time, about to occur надвигающийся, неизбежный
testverbal.ru

The indigent refugees did not have clothing, food, or a place to stay.

indigent

poor, needy
бедный, нуждающийся
testverbal.ru

Susan thoughtfully perused the magazine, looking for a particular article.

peruse

to examine carefully внимательно изучать
testverbal.ru

I found myself being jostled roughly as I tried to make my way through the large crowd.

jostle

to push толкаться
testverbal.ru

Richard's wry sense of humor made some people think he was weird.

wry

distorted, abnormal искривленный, ненормальный
testverbal.ru

I accosted the police officer to ask why I had been given a ticket.

accost

to approach and speak to приставать, обращаться
testverbal.ru

Can we bolster the charity effort by giving more money, time, and other resources?

bolster

to support поддерживать
testverbal.ru

Let's add a tinge of color to the white walls to give them some character.

tinge

shade, small amount оттенок, малое количество
testverbal.ru

Bob was given legal impunity for the crimes he had committed.

impunity

freedom from punishment безнаказанность
testverbal.ru

Do you think the obsolescence of books is inevitable due to new technologies?

obsolescence

process of wearing out устаревание, исчезновение
testverbal.ru